- The new agricultural school in Salez, in the St. Gallen Rhine valley region is an extremely intelligently conceived low-tech construction made of timber by Andy Senn

The new agricultural school in Salez, in the St. Gallen Rhine valley region, has a slender, airy and light appearance. It is an extremely intelligently conceived low-tech construction made of timber. The design is by Andy Senn, who has led his architectural office in St. Gallen since 1998 and has produced an extraordinary, homogeneous oeuvre in the last 20 years.

Text in English and German.
