Brussels-based architecture firm A2RC is renowned for its steadfast dedication to the continuing urbanisation of the city of Brussels. Critical of attempts over the years to 'modernise' Brussels, A2RC's aim is to pursue the reintegration of the city by offering full architectural services for the transformation and readaptation of notable buildings.

A2RC's expertise extends to new construction, particularly large-scale, mixed-use urban ensembles, and it also has a reputation as one of Europe's most experienced firms in newly built and renovated theater buildings.

This book explores the work of a firm dedicated to the future of one of Europe's most historic and beautiful cities.
