TITLE INFORMATION
Tel: +44 (0) 1394 389950
Email: uksales@accartbooks.com
Web: https://www.accartbooks.com/uk

Argentina

What the Night Tells the Day

Edited by Andrés Duprat

Edited by Diego Sileo

ISBN	9788836656912
Publisher	Silvana
Binding	Hardback
Territory	UK, Ireland, Scandinavia, Iceland, Germany, Greece, Eastern Europe, & Austria. Arab States non-exclusive. Selected territories in Asia, non-exclusive
Size	280 mm x 230 mm
Pages	260 Pages
Illustrations	160 colour
Price	£32.00

- Presents a selection of works created by more than 20 Argentinean artists, from different generations

Through sculptures, installations, photographs, videos and performances, the curatorial project develops along three axes – irony, literalness and citation – presenting different approaches to the representation of a culture often characterised, in the past as well as today, by forms of violence.

Situations and attitudes that overcome conjunctures and settle into a question about the future and what social battles to fight, in Argentina and the rest of the world. A heterogeneous project that also tries to narrate and bring out the many different aspects and forms of expression of a country that for years was the main destination of the great European migrations.

Artists: Eduardo Basualdo, Mariana Bellotto, Adriana Bustos, Matias Duville, Leandro Erlich, León Ferrari, Lucio Fontana, Ana Gallardo, Alberto Greco, Jorge Macchi, Liliana Maresca, Marta Minujín, Miguel Rothschild, Adrián Villar Rojas, Cristina Piffer, Liliana Porter, Nicolás Robbio, Graciela Sacco, Alessandra Sanguinetti, Tomás Saraceno, Mariela Scafati, Juan Sorrentino.

Text in English and Italian.

Published 21st Oct 2024