- A monograph on the Zurich based architectural practice Atelier Abraha Achermann
- With 300 images and 150 plans

Since 2010, the studio Atelier Abraha Achermann has been designing buildings and projects that are characterised by their spatial wealth and surprising autonomy. Structured in different layers of content, this volume is a comprehensive workshop report, offering diverse insight into earlier and later works and processes. The book is a monographic experimental arrangement with which to compile, consider, research and experiment.

Text in English and German.

Daniel Abraha (*1982, dipl. Arch. ETH) studied Architecture at the ETH Zurich from 2002–2007. In 2010 he opened his own practice together with Stephan Achermann, after a study trip in Eastern Africa in 2009. In 2008–2009 he worked as an architect with Buchner Bründler Architekten in Basel.
