Unique city guide for a visit to New York with the whole family. Five outlined walks tailored to families, with sights for all ages. Get to know the Big Apple through the eyes of 19 locals who grew up in this magical city. Numerous infographics, fun facts and games for children and adults. Do you find travelling with children a hassle? Do you think New York is only interesting for adults? Totally wrong. If only one city welcomes children, it has to be New York. Every neighbourhood has the most fantastic playgrounds, you can change diapers almost everywhere, and in museums children are treated as real VIPs. From babies to teenagers, New York is interesting for everyone. In Be NY Family, the authors tell us what the life of children looks like in this metropolis. To explore New York, there are no age limits: from the sling, on roller skates or a skateboard, to a sleepover in a museum, it's all possible. Also available: Be NY ISBN 9789401434690

Patrick van Rosendaal followed his heart to the United States seven years ago, and quickly lost his heart to New York. His admiration for the city grew into a real passion. The urge to share his passion drove him into a life as a city guide. As an official member of GANYC, the prestigious professional association for city guides, he has already worn out three Vespas and an immeasurable number of soles during the thousands of kilometres he has covered while exploring the city. His own city guide company Be New York is becoming increasingly successful. Patrick and his team have given more than ten thousand visitors an unforgettable experience. After all his journeys through the city, Patrick wrote this book on the basis of various portraits of New Yorkers who crossed his path. Interesting, creative, outspoken, or distinctive personalities who uncover the ins and outs of life in New York.
