- Architecture office 'Bovenbouw' presents its work in all of its variety and maps the rich world of references with which it designs
- Intuitive yet thought out, and with a measured dose of humour, it maps an extensive frame of reference

Architecture office 'Bovenbouw' presents its work in all of its variety and maps the rich world of references with which it designs. It provides a look inside the variety of projects and the rich world of references of the eponymous architecture office from Antwerp. The book and the exhibition act as complements to one another; autonomous, but all the richer when read together. Intuitive yet thought out, and with a measured dose of humour, it maps an extensive frame of reference.
