TITLE INFORMATION
Tel: +44 (0) 1394 389950
Email: uksales@accartbooks.com
Web: https://www.accartbooks.com/uk

CARTHA - On Relations In Architecture

Edited by Elena Chiavi

Edited by Matilde Girao

Edited by Pablo Garrido i Arnaiz

Edited by Francisco Moura Veiga

Edited by Francisco Ramos Ordonez

Edited by Ruben Valdez

ISBN	9783038600374
Publisher	Park Books
Binding	Hardback
Territory	World excluding Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Puerto Rico, United States, Canada, and Japan
Size	246 mm x 187 mm
Pages	284 Pages
Illustrations	33 color, 118 b&w
Name of series	CARTHA
Price	£20.00

- Analyses role and importance of personal relationships, forms of collaboration, and hierarchies in contemporary architectural production
- Features statements and opinions by emerging architects and theoreticians from around the world
- Illustrated with images by up-and-coming international architectural photographers

CARTHA is a non-profit curated platform for sharing different forms of critical thinking regarding architecture and society, founded in 2015. Through opinions, experiences, and works it aims to map the contemporary architectural landscape and to bridge gaps between academic discourse and practical work. Each year CARTHA dedicates to a specific topic.

In 2015 the topic was “Relations within the architectural spectrum.” This book collects contributions by forty-two young architects from around the world in four sections: Worth Sharing, Confrères, Mannschaft, and Santisima Trinidad. They aim to develop the ways in which architects share, relate to architects, to workers, and to their clients and user of their buildings. Each section features an introductory interview with a renowned architect and a visual exploration by an up-and-coming photographer.

Published 24th Nov 2016