- An extraordinary collection of applied arts by famous ceramicist and gallerist Lotte Reimers
- Jewellery, metal- and woodwork, textiles, glass and one-offs in paper

In addition to her life's work in ceramic art, the artist, gallerist and collector Lotte Reimers (b. 1932) has compiled a fascinating collection of applied art from other disciplines. With 132 objects, Die Sprache der Dinge (The Language of Things) presents jewellery, metal and textile design, leather- and woodwork, paper art, and one-offs in glass. The collection, which has grown over decades, reflects Lotte Reimers' own unique collecting style: aside from personal taste, quality in form and craftsmanship is an essential criterion for inclusion. The things themselves enter a polyphonic and exciting dialogue in their multiplicity and individuality.

Die Sprache der Dinge is an invitation to all aficionados of applied art to enter Lotte Reimers' world of collecting.
