Dua Lipa has enjoyed a sensational rise to the peak of pop stardom. Her infectious disco-influenced hits have scored billions of plays on Spotify – yes, billions! – and her sharp fashion choices have turned heads across the entertainment industry making her an international style icon.

Born and raised in London, Dua showed promise as a performer in her mid-teens, and by her early twenties, had already won an armful of awards, including BRITs and Grammys. Frequently splashed on the covers of Teen Vogue, Elle, Clash and more, she has also starred as a model in ad campaigns and ambassadorial roles for Pepe Jeans, Puma, Adidas Originals and Versace. In 2023, Dua's Barbie soundtrack, her acting debut in the film and her subsequent red-carpet appearances won her a legion of new followers around the world.

Dua Lipa and the Clothes She Wears is a celebration of the superstar's biggest fashion moments. Written by former British Vogue news editor Scarlett Conlon, this latest addition to the bestselling series is a must-have for fans and fashionistas.

Scarlett Conlon is a freelance fashion journalist, editor and consultant. Having previously held roles as deputy fashion editor and acting fashion editor at the Guardian and Observer and as news editor at British Vogue, Scarlett frequently reports from fashion weeks and design fairs, and interviews high-profile designers and industry leaders, as well as working with brands to create exciting cross-platform campaign narratives. Based in Italy, Scarlett's current work appears regularly in a host of publications, including Vogue, the Observer Magazine, 10 Magazine, the Guardian and CNN Style.
