- Introducing the first exhibition of Florian Hüttner

It has been long awaited, but Florian Hüttner, collaborator for 25 years and co-operator of the gallery for landscape art in Hamburg, finally has a first survey exhibition.

Curated by Till Krause, the show resembles a well-tended garden. Boskette, bushes, waysides, fences and a viewing platform arranged in the huge space of the former Wandelhalle in Bad Tölz. Visitors can stroll through the multi-layered work: Paintings are packed, crates are painted, painted crates float on rivers. Paintings, map cityscapes, drawings cut into landscapes, sound transmissions from underground. Drawings, sound transmissions from underground streams…. a partisan frescoed partisan ambush in the Alps….

The book, conceived and designed by the artist himself, documents the exhibition and goes further into the original context of the works shown. Thus, this artist book is supplemented with images of very different places and exhibition contexts.

Text in English and German.
