- Detachable cards make for intuitive work
- Perfect introduction to implementing a talent-oriented framework in your organisation

We all have talents, but we don't always know what they are. As a result, talent is sometimes a difficult concept to grasp – but one that we need to understand if we are to make the most of our lives. The 'Go with Your Talent framework' is a tool to help you discover your innate talent. The author, a noted expert in talent psychology, believes the road to self-fulfillment and authenticity is found by focusing wholeheartedly on the things we are good at. With these detachable cards that you tear out and shuffle, you can get started right away with discovering your unique talent set and those of your co-workers, and implementing a talent-based approach throughout your company or organisation. Find your unique talent pattern, and find out more about using your talents to the fullest in your professional environment.

Luk Dewulf is an expert on positive psychology and personal talent development. He is a sought-after speaker, and a widely-published talent and burn-out coach. In his work, he focuses on finding ways to unleash strength and potential in individuals, organisations and children. Peter Beschuyt is an academic, and an advisor at Kessels & Smit, The Learning Company. As a process manager and advisor, he supports organisations and schools in the development and implementation of a talent-oriented organisational policy. Els Pronk is a children's coach and the founder of Grootsklein, in which she supports children in the development of their talent.
