A guide to rediscovering the deep connection with nature and the power it offers for our well-being. This book takes the reader on a holistic journey towards harmony between body, mind, and spirit, inspired by the magic of the Earth and its natural cycles. Through simple practices, it invites readers to reconnect with the rhythms of life, respecting both seasonal and inner energies. The path is structured in five natural phases, encouraging the rediscovery of the power of earth, water, air, and fire, with rituals, meditations, and practical advice to integrate natural energy into daily life.

Anastasia Mostacci has been deeply interested in the visible and invisible connections between humans and nature since childhood. With a degree in philosophy and as a yoga practitioner, she specialised in studying plants, learning to recognise their subtle voices and healing powers. Since 2015, she has curated projects dedicated to the communication between humans and nature, guiding evolutionary paths to develop awareness and harmony with the green world. Sara Marcuzzi, an illustrator with a background in Graphic Design and Photography. After starting with watercolours, she began exploring digital drawing in 2018, transforming her passion into a profession.
