In this book you will find a stunning collection of homes from the 20th century that have been lovingly restored to their modernist splendour and are still lived in. Photographer Jan Verlinde captures the power of the interiors and architecture on film like no other. Author Thijs Demeulemeester explains the houses in detail, based on interviews with residents, insights from the architects and the chosen interior styles. In this successor to the successful Homes for Nomads and Homes for Collectors, you will discover which modernist gems are still hidden and how they are lived in today.
