- Jean-Dominique Burton, offers us another viewpoint relating to refugees and what they represent
- Text in English, French, and Dutch

The fate of these people who are constantly on the move is an issue which we cannot face with indifference. The photographer and videographer, Jean-Dominique Burton, offers us another viewpoint relating to refugees and what they represent: a viewpoint which is beyond stereotypes, and fundamentally respectful and human. This artistic and altruistic reflection is based on the welcome, the opening up to others and the amazing interaction that can happen when different cultures come together.

Text in English, French, and Dutch.
