- The architects reflect the location, the surroundings, the conditions of the task and derive their own formulae from them, often with inventive nuances and form deviations of traditional concepts that have a poetic appearance

Recently, the three Lausanne architects united under the programmatic name of Localarchitecture have completed exciting projects that generally pursue the same strategy: The architects reflect the location, the surroundings, the conditions of the task and derive their own formulae from them, often with inventive nuances and form deviations of traditional concepts that have a poetic appearance. Text in German with an English insert.
