- The Zurich architects Oliver Menzi and Philippe Bürgler demonstrate their ability to balance function with their signature reserved style

The Zurich architects Oliver Menzi and Philippe Bürgler demonstrate their ability to balance function with their signature reserved style. They skilfully play these attributes off each other, creating attractive public buildings such as the school and sports hall in Matzendorf, and the parish hall in Würenlos. Similarly, the recently completed new wing at the Felsberg school, Lucerne, is a small masterpiece that shows their mastery of interior space, exterior structure, and precision in detail. This small book showcases some of Menzi and Bürgler's greatest accomplishments to date.
