- The beauty and diversity of Morocco captured through the exceptional lens of photographer Fokion Zissiadis
- Spectacular landscapes and a personal glimpse into the country's diverse culture: the fleeting beauty of Volubilis' historic ruins, the vibrant colors of Chefchaouen, and the lively markets in Fez, Had Draa and Rissani, among others
- Morocco not only offers captivating content but also features premium linen covers, paper variations, and an XXL format

In his new photo book, Fokion Zissiadis takes us on a visual journey through fascinating Morocco. Following his impressive publications on Iceland, Vietnam, and Greenland, he now presents an authentic and holistic view of a country that harmoniously combines scenic landscapes, rich history, and traditions.

The book, splendidly equipped with a high-quality linen cover and exquisite paper change, not only offers fascinating content, but is also presented in a generous XXL format – a true work of art for any coffee table. Through exceptional photography, Zissiadis captures the ephemeral beauty of the historic ruins of Volubilis, the imposing colours of the “Blue City” of Chefchaouen and the vibrant dynamics of the markets in Fez, Had Draa and Rissani, among others.

Zissiadis has developed a remarkable sense of space and aesthetics through his architectural studies in Philadelphia. In Morocco, he succeeds in sensitively depicting the country's contrasts – from the tranquility of the desert to the vibrant atmosphere of the cities. His respectful approach to people and cultures lends this illustrated book a special authenticity.

Experience the diversity and richness of Morocco through the lens of an artist dedicated to adventurous travel and true-to-life photography. This work is more than just an illustrated book – it is an invitation to capture the spirit of Morocco.

Fokion Zissiadis was born in 1956 in Thessaloniki, Northern Greece and started photography while studying architecture in Philadelphia. Since 2016, he has been fully dedicated to his passion for landscape photography and adventure travel, planning and organising solo photo expeditions to remote destinations of great natural beauty. His first solo photography exhibition took place in October 2019 at the Benaki Museum in Athens under the title Icebergs - From Genesis to Extinction. After Greenland, ISBN 9783961714476, Morocco is Fokion's fourth published work.
