A cute series for pre-school children to start gaining more confidence with numbers and colours. In the first volume, children will understand the relationship between numbers and quantity, to learn to count to 100 and to develop their math skills. In the second volume, colours are introduced using items taken from familiar contexts so that the little readers can learn new words as well as the theory of colours, how to distinguish primary colours and how to mix them to make new ones. The intent of these big board books is to stimulate the interest of pre-school children in the world of numbers and colours. The books are presented in the form of delightful games to help the readers learning and understanding in a visual and easy way. Ages: 3 plus
