- An original and lyrical take on the City of Lights and its seasonal changes
- Contains previously unseen work by this respected French photographer, showcasing his intimate understanding of light

Photographer Philippe Saharoff reaches beyond the usual clichés that surround the city of Paris, focusing on its river, the Seine. Through atmospheric variations and the changing of the seasons, Sharoff captures the magical moments of twilight and daybreak. His compositions evolve according to the placement of the sun and the moon, offering an evocative and original take on the City of Lights.

Philippe Saharoff is a photographer who specialises in lifestyle shoots. He devoted his career to travelling and design, and collaborates regularly with French and International magazines such as Elle Decoration and Madame Figaro.
