- A unique look inside the Peyrassol estate, an ancient place breathing history
- Discover the vineyards, interior and sculpture park of this former Templars' base

Time is of no importance here. Past and present are one and eternal. The history of Peyrassol, in the massif des Maures, France, is that of an ancient place where Templars used to have a base. Today this enormous estate of over 1000 hectares has once again found its splendour. The owner Philippe Austruy has lovingly renovated Peyrassol, restoring it to its former glory. The stone walls surround the symmetrical vineyards, and centenary oak trees contribute to a unique atmosphere that simply breathes history. Wine is not the only guest of honour in Peyrassol, as the domain also houses one of the most beautiful modern sculpture parks.
