Proximities
The Architecture of Jon Lott
Edited by Julie Cirelli
Foreword by Toshiko Mori

ISBN	9783038604099
Publisher	Park Books
Binding	Paperback / softback
Territory	World excluding Austria, France, Germany, Switzerland, Puerto Rico, United States, Canada, and Japan
Size	240 mm x 170 mm
Pages	192 Pages
Illustrations	200 color, 50 b&w
Price	£35.00

- First monograph on design firm PARA Project based in Amenia, NY
- Combines theoretical discourse and practical insights into PARA Project's work
- A unique hybrid of architectural monograph and philosophical inquiry into the nature of creating and experiencing space

Proximities: The Architecture of Jon Lott is an erudite exploration into the practice of PARA Project, a design firm based in Amenia, NY, and the philosophies of its founder Jon Lott. Lott's work, characterised by its openness to reconfiguration and its dialogue with context, is presented through five key projects: Haffenden House, Pioneertown House, Stump House, Brugge, and Lean-tos.

The book probes the significance of proximity and approximation in Lott's work and emphasises how these elements facilitate a deeper engagement with the surroundings. Structured around thematic prompts such as "Readings/Reflections," "Proximities/Approximations," and "Diptychs/Doubles," it offers a multifaceted examination of Lott's design approach, and also highlights the playful and improvisational aspects of Lott's methodology.

Featuring theoretical discourse and practical insights, Proximities is both an architectural monograph and a philosophical inquiry into the nature of creating and experiencing space. It is essential reading for those interested in the intersections of architecture, philosophy, and environmental interaction.

With contributions by Mark Lee, Jon Lott, Charles Shafaieh and Julie Cirelli.

Julie Cirelli is a Stockholm-based American journalist and editor specialising in architecture and design, and co-director of Zurich-based architecture publishing house Park Books.