Age: 5 plus.

Attracted since childhood by both art and science, Román Garciá Mora graduated in biology. After his studies, he decided to unite the two fields that fascinated him and specialised in scientific illustration, devoting himself in particular to paleontological reconstruction, above all of dinosaurs. Román has received several international awards in this field. He has worked for several scientific journals such as PM Bilde Quo and collaborates with various publishers and illustrated scientific publications, along with researchers from several Spanish institutions.
