- Based on proven B2B-prospecting strategies from more than 350 companies; no theory, just what works in practice
- Written for entrepreneurs who want to grow through smart, predictable and scalable prospecting
- The first practical book to explain prospecting in a clear and straightforward way
- A practical guide packed with tips, frameworks and step-by-step approaches you can apply immediately
- Practical tools: checklists, cold email scripts and useful AI tools

Decision-makers deal with a constant stream of emails, calls and notifications every day. Overloaded inboxes and increasingly strict filters are making traditional prospecting methods – ‘send more messages, make more calls’ – less and less effective. Strategic Prospecting shows you how to get noticed in an increasingly crowded environment. Step by step, you will learn how to build a structured approach: from developing a clear strategy and creating relevant prospect lists to writing effective cold emails, designing sequences and using proven scripts. No theoretical concepts, but a practical guide full of examples and proven techniques that will help you start more conversations and move opportunities forward. ‘This is not a “tips and tricks” book. People are looking for value, trust and a reason to take action now. Jorik understands this: he doesn’t build a sales funnel, he builds a runway.

“Read it, highlight it, fold down the corners and put it into practice” — Michael Humblet, Founder of Chaomatic, Co-founder of School of Sales and author of Why Now.

“Jorik is the man who loves prospecting, learns by doing and teaches others how to do it: Go Johnny, erm... Jorik, go go! A great book and highly recommended.” — Peter Snauwaert, Sales Manager at Cronos Group.

“This book brings traditional prospecting into the modern ICT world.” — Frank Borgenon, Sales Manager at Equans.
