Albert Dros has a passion for landscape photography. Although he travels the world in search of the most beautiful images, the Netherlands is still his favourite subject. After all these years, Albert has created extremely atmospheric, colourful and almost romantic photographs of the Netherlands. His dream images in this book show everything that makes the Netherlands the Netherlands: from tulips to windmills, from purple moors to vast river landscapes and from picturesque towns to animals in meadows and in the wild.The Beauty of the Netherlands is the result of ten years of craftsmanship by an internationally renowned photographer who captures a Netherlands that few people will ever see with their own eyes.

Albert Dros is known for his passion for landscape photography. His work has been published in various (international) media of repute, such as Time, Huffington Post, Daily Mail, National Geographic and the NRC. He gives photography lectures, workshops and master classes at home and abroad, accompanies photography trips and is an ambassador for Sony.
