Unleash your senses with The Life and Times of Forever, a visual feast bursting with colour, texture, and surprise. This captivating collection of photo collages transcends the still life, weaving lush close-ups of flowers, fruits, vegetables, and sculpture with fragments of poetry. Each meticulously crafted image unfolds like a hidden world, inviting you to see something completely new each time you look at it. With her trademark eye for whimsy and unexpected juxtapositions, Patricia Z. Smith uses a playful exploration of nature's abundance to create a unique memoir — walking us through the way she sees the world.

Patricia Z Smith, 81, is a photographer, poet, and social activist. She was founder-director (and documentary director) of the first social network connecting women globally for secure private conversations. She documented poverty across the US, taught photography at the Smithsonian Institution, and had one-person exhibits of her photographs. Design: Louise Brody. Editor: Karen C. Fox.
