Real life is often stranger than fiction! This is especially true when it comes to insects, one of the most numerous and diverse life forms on our planet. Generally, insects are so small that they often go unnoticed. However, some species have such extravagant shapes, unbelievable evolutionary tactics, and explosions of colour, that you can't help but be amazed. Who's the weirdest? There are many candidates competing for this title, which with its own special features that make it unique…

In this book, children will explore some of the strangest beings on earth – have you ever heard of a Hummingbird Hawk-Moth? You're missing out!
