Wolfram Ullrich (*1961) oscillates between painting and sculpture. For decades, he has used his refined techniques to amaze viewers with his perfect trompe l'oeils. Optically speaking, his intensely colourful, often multi-part wall reliefs develop an enormous sense of physicality and practically seem to project into the space. Their dynamic arrangement transforms the entire appearance of a space. In this publication the MKK Ingolstadt presents Ullrich's multifaceted, consequential oeuvre all together for the first time, covering all stages of his work.
