There is possibly no city in the United States as misunderstood as Baltimore, and yet there are few that can match it in majesty. One of the oldest Great Cities of America, Baltimore is profoundly rich in history and culture. But its character is not only derived from its past: Charm City's present and future belong to the thousands of artists and innovators who call it home. Baltimore is full of adventure and surprises. You'll visit the site of one of the most notorious scenes in cinematic history, and the home of the gay divorcée who stole the heart of a king. You'll hear music performed by future classical music stars, grab a bite at the last old-fashioned Polish smokehouse on the East Coast, and spend a day on a street art scavenger hunt. Whether it's your first visit or your 20th, and even if you've lived here for a lifetime, you'll embark on a journey of discovery through 111 fascinating spots across Baltimore.

Allison Robicelli is a James Beard-nominated writer, author, entrepreneur, and backyard adventurer. A frequent contributor to the Washington Post and other notable publications. She is the author of four books, including the critically acclaimed cookbook Robicelli's: A Love Story, With Cupcakes. Born and raised in New York City, she was drawn to Baltimore for its creative spirit, impeccable architecture, robust culture, and vibrant communities. John Dean is a freelance photographer and video producer, who specializes in photographing people in different environments. He was given a Brownie 620 box camera when he was 7 years old, and he has been hooked ever since. He is happy to be working in the current "golden age" of high definition documentary film making, producing videos for museums and non-profit organizations. John did the photography for 111 Places in Washington, DC That You Must Not Miss.
