With non-stop entertainment, endless gambling opportunities, and world-class dining, there's no shortage of things to do in Las Vegas. But beyond the neon lights, buffets, and slot machines is a city with a unique history, extraordinary natural wonders, rich culture, and close-knit communities. As the fastest growing city established in the 20th-century, Las Vegas is continuously evolving, gaining new attractions each day and revitalizing cultural gems.
111 Places in Las Vegas offers a chance to rediscover familiar haunts or unearth new favorites to better understand this sensational city. Grab a drink at the oldest freestanding bar in the city or check out the only operating casino named to the National Register of Historic Places. Explore Vegas's quirky themed street names or drive along the starry-est route in America. Search for centuries old petroglyphs or learn about the city's modest origins. Whatever your personal tastes and travel style, this neon-lit entertainment capital has it in spades. And then some.

Mackenzie Jervis is a travel writer with a background in creative writing. She has a love for uncovering hidden gems and cultural experiences around the globe thanks to visiting over 65 countries and living on three continents. She now lives in Las Vegas where she searches for the best literary activities and desert adventures. Kaitlyn Kelsey moved from a small town in Western New York to the great city of Las Vegas in 2014 on a dare with her best friend and has been enjoying exploring the city ever since. Project Manager by day and Photographer by nights and weekends, you can always find her scouting for new photo locations and more often than not with a disco ball in her car and a coffee in hand. Kaitlyn has two dogs, Diesel and Missy, a love for fresh flowers, and a thirst for adventure and travel.
