Portugal's picture-perfect coastal capital tops the list of city destinations for tourists, drawn to its sun-drenched streets, dynamic art scene and mouthwatering food. Its cobbled streets, pastel-toned houses and stunning scenery, along with its warm atmosphere and relaxed pace, will see you booking your next stay – before you've even tasted your first pastel de nata. Lisbon is brimming with extraordinary places, from charming cafes to late-night music bars, world-class galleries and museums to quirky artisan shops – these are the very best places to visit, whether you're there for a day, a weekend or lingering a little longer. Part of a growing series of opinionated city guides, offering straight-talking insider advice on the world's must-visit cities — from New York and Berlin to London and Paris.
