- Curated Living: Elegant Interiors and Artful Homes showcases 18 unique residences from around the world. The selection highlights natural materials, organic forms, and textural elements within the home. Earthy, neutral, and smokey color palettes, along with occasional pops of color, are interwoven to redefine elegance
- Meditative or whimsical collections and contemporary, provocative artworks dominate the homes' interiors. A curatorial approach delivers a poetic sense to each, providing a joyful exploration of residential design
- Each residence has its own chapter, which contains insights from the principal designers on the creation of the elegant interiors. They explain how they integrate old and new architectural details as well as the rationale behind unusual combinations of color, pattern, and texture
- Lavish imagery captured by leading photographers of interior design conveys the warmth, comfort, and elegance of these homes

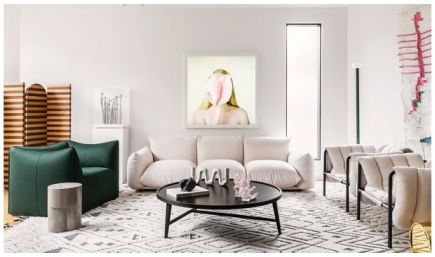

Curated Living: Elegant Interiors and Artful Homes invites readers to explore some of the world's most stylish sanctuaries and to find inspiration to create their own elegant, artful home.

This new title from Australian journalist, editor, and stylist Susan Redman features 18 sophisticated, art-filled houses and apartments from across Europe, North America, and Australia. Despite their varied origins, these homes share a commitment to serenity and refinement, offering beautiful interiors characterized by luxurious materials, designer furniture, bespoke joinery, handcrafted decor, and treasured artworks.

Illustrated with glorious full-color imagery, Redman's evocative narratives offer valuable insight into how the talented designers blend historical elegance and contemporary luxury. Interviews with the principal designers reveal how these beautiful interiors were crafted, and how old and new architectural details have been integrated in harmonious ways. Every element of these unique residences is carefully curated and arranged, telling a story of comfort, grace, and quiet sophistication.

Susan Redman is an Australian journalist, editor, and stylist with a passion for architecture and design. This has led to a notable career writing about homes and the people who design, decorate and live in them. She is currently the Homes Editor for Sunday Life, a Fairfax Media lifestyle magazine. Previously, Redman has worked as a design columnist for The Sydney Morning Herald, The Age, Vogue Australia, and The Japan Times, and has been a regular contributor to various home and design publications, including Vogue Living, Country Style, Home Beautiful, Belle, Gardening Australia, Black + White, Houzz and Domain. She's also written extensively about fashion, art and travel.

In addition to Curated Living, Redman's other books are Modern Houses in Black, which explores the trend in black home design through a collection of distinctive residential properties; Love Shacks, a volume that not only features beautiful hideaways and retreats, and seeks to understand how people and places influence holiday home design; and My Dream Kombi, celebrating the retro design icon and the fascinating stories of the people who traveled in them.
