- A new title of the Anthologie series focussing on work reports on young architects
- This title features Dario Franchini and Diego Calderon and their conversions of buildings
- Text in English and German

In 2016, Dario Franchini and Diego Calderon founded two offices, one in Lugano and one in London. Since then, they have completed a number of small conversions and buildings with an experimental character. For the Palazzo del Cinema in Locarno, they carried out a relatively large conversion project including heightening measures. Their interventions are both precise and clinical.

Text in English and German.
