TITLE INFORMATION
Tel: +1 212 645 1111
Email: ussales@accartbooks.com
Web: https://www.accartbooks.com/us

Hardest Kind of Archetype: Reflections on Roy Lichetenstein

Hal Foster

ISBN	9781906270384
Publisher	National Galleries of Scotland
Binding	Hardback
Territory	USA & Canada
Size	6.5 in x 8.46 in
Pages	48 Pages
Illustrations	20 color
Price	$12.50

- A wide-ranging, gripping lecture on Roy Lichtenstein.

Established following the 125th anniversary of the Chair of Fine Art at the University of Edinburgh and named after the painter Sir John Watson Gordon, the Watson Gordon Lectures typify the long-standing positive collaboration between the University of Edinburgh and the National Galleries of Scotland: two partners in the Visual Arts Research Institute in Edinburgh. The fifth lecture was given by Hal Foster of Princeton University. Professor Foster is an acknowledged expert on modernist art and architecture, and has a particular fascination with Pop art. His wide-ranging lecture on Roy Lichtenstein is a gripping engagement with the multiple aspects of the artist's work: the conjunctions of art and technology, the satirical playing with previous modernist styles, and the sinister background of the military-industrial complex. Also available in the series:
Roger Fry's Journal: From the Primitives to the Post-Impressionists: Watson Gordon Lecture 2006 9781906270117 Sound, Silence, and Modernity in Dutch Pictures of Manners: Watson Gordon Lecture 2007 9781906270254 Picasso's 'Toys for Adults': Cubism as Surrealism: Watson Gordon Lecture 2008 9781906270261

Published 18th Jul 2011