- In their first monograph, Founder Geoffrey Graci and his team at G-Line Construct present the passionate world of high-end residences in dialog with the renowned architects, artisans, and artists who together strive for excellence in all their work
- Bound in natural linen

Founded 13 years ago by Geoffrey Graci, a trained architect, G-Line Construct is a general contracting company based in Braine-l'Alleud and active primarily in Brussels, Walloon Brabant, and Flemish Brabant. Over the years, the company has developed a multidisciplinary approach grounded in a simple conviction: the success of a project depends as much on technical expertise as on the quality of the people and craftsmanship that bring it to life. Specializing in renovation, restoration, new construction, and interior build-outs for private residences, G-Line Construct focuses on demanding projects where every detail matters. Its teams work closely with architects, craftspeople, and engineering firms to identify solutions that are thoughtful, durable, and consistent with the overall architectural vision. From the rehabilitation of buildings with distinctive character to the creation of custom interiors, the company remains committed to a single vision: to preserve, transform, and build with respect, precision, and passion. That philosophy finds a natural expression in this book, dedicated to the women and men whose skills and craftsmanship bring each project to life.
