- Includes fun, interactive features to encourage young readers through hands-on learning
- Bonus materials include paper masks, special viewfinders, and stickers!

Geared towards young readers and families, Myths, Angels, and Masquerades explores themes including religious art, landscapes, still-life painting, and portraiture. It accesses these topics through forty-seven works of art, chosen from the collection of The San Diego Museum of Art. Interactive features provide opportunities for further investigation, while "Your Turn" activities invite you to try your own hand at creating art inspired by the work of past masters.

Amy Gray is manager of Educator and Student Programs at The San Diego Museum of Art. She is responsible for organizing youth art exhibitions, educator programs, family programs, and the Museum Art School. Lucy Holland is a museum educator at The San Diego Museum of Art, where she creates gallery activity guides and other educational materials.
