

Revision

Edited by Lucerne University of Applied Sciences and Arts

ISBN	9783037613535
Publisher	Quart Publishers
Binding	Paperback / softback
Territory	USA & Canada
Size	6.69 in x 8.66 in
Pages	100 Pages
Illustrations	100 color, 20 b&w
Name of series	Laboratorium
Price	$31.50

- The seventh book in the Laboratorium series
- Celebrating the joyful diffusion of everyday aspects of building and solid means of creating spatial structures at the new first-year course of the HSLU, Lucerne
- With 100 images and 20 plans

The seventh book in the Laboratorium series is entitled Revision, celebrating the joyful diffusion of everyday aspects of building and solid means of creating spatial structures at the new first-year course of the HSLU, overlapped by, compared to and confronted with theses, references and itself. The illustrated book regards itself as a handy inspiration machine for design that is motivated by spatial construction, while appealing for diversity and multi-valence in architecture and referring to a wide range of contemporary revisions – namely those referring to collective values and goals, our self-awareness as practicing architects, and also structural revision as an act of upkeep and care.

Text in English and German.

Lucerne University of Applied Sciences and Arts (German: Hochschule Luzern) (HSLU) is one of seven regional, public-funded universities of applied sciences founded in 1997 in its current form. Lucerne University of Applied Sciences and Arts is a Swiss public vocational university with campuses in Lucerne, Horw, Emmenbrücke and Rotkreuz.