- To go where very few have gone before
- A personal account of 25 of the most extraordinary travel places and experiences today
- Written and beautifully photographed by travel journalist Luke Abrahams
- The perfect stylish coffee table book for travel enthusiasts

As a professional traveler, journalist Luke Abrahams has ventured where only very few people have ventured before. He went gorilla trekking in Rwanda, discovered nomadic life in Mongolia, boarded the Andean Explorer Train in Peru, hiked volcanoes in Indonesia and Guatemala… The Luxury Travel Book bundles personal accounts of some of the experiences and places that will stay with the writer forever – whether it be for their exceptional luxuriousness, their exhilarating sense of adventure or their spiritual meaning. Each story is accompanied by the author's own photographs, which capture his travels with a sense of warmth and intimacy. These personal snapshots transports readers inside the stories – as if they are there themselves.

As a freelance journalist, London-based Luke Abrahams writes luxury lifestyle and travel features –often photographing them too – for various media including Vogue, Harper's BAZAAR, Elle, The Times, Vanity Fair, Wallpaper, Condé Nast Traveller, The Telegraph* and many more.
