TITLE INFORMATION
Tel: +1 212 645 1111
Email: ussales@accartbooks.com
Web: https://www.accartbooks.com/us

The Story of Green

Katy Kelleher

ISBN	9781917719483
Publisher	Hoxton Mini Press
Binding	Hardback
Territory	USA & Canada
Size	5.1 in x 7.1 in
Pages	208 Pages
Illustrations	150 color
Name of series	Colour Stories
Price	$19.95

- Premium Design / Sprayed Edges: Features high-quality green sprayed edges that complement the book's design, enhancing its appeal as a gift edition and a collectible for display.

The color of lush forests, spring growth, and renewal, green has also long been associated with envy, sickness, and decay. Once considered one of the most unpredictable pigments by artists, its meanings have always been complex and contradictory. This beautifully illustrated book explores the story of green through an essay tracing its significance in nature, art, religion, and culture from the ancient world to today, followed by a gallery celebrating the color in all its forms and shades.

Katy Kelleher is an art, design, nature, and science writer. She is the author of The Ugly History of Beautiful Things (2024). Her essays on color have been published in The Awl and The Paris Review, where she wrote a popular column on color for years. Katy lives in Maine, USA.

Publish date 16th Feb 2027